In-Sight

SOA Awarded: 2/19/10

Author: Gerard D. Webster

Publisher: Outskirts Press, Inc.

Original release date: 30 November 2008 - re-released early January 2009 after some additional revisions.

ISBN: 978-1432737023

Synopsis: In-Sight is a modern prodigal son story set in Jacksonville, FL about a young man, Ward McNulty, who has abandoned his Catholic family values to pursue success as a political columnist. To all appearances, he's gained it--along with the affections of a TV anchorwoman and connections with rich and powerful friends. But when a group of investors convince him to back the conversion of a sleepy island town into a resort, it pits Ward against his father--a resident of the island--in a bitter eminent domain battle. Ward balks when he learns that the financial backers are not all they seem. And they'll stop at nothing--including ruining his career and murder--to get what they want. When all his former "friends" abandon him, he turns to the only man who'll stand by his side--his father. In the ensuing conflict, Ward learns the secret of his father's uncanny insight and the true meaning of sacrificial love.

But Fish, struggling with problems of his own, thinks that Rose should go looking elsewhere for a knight in shining armor. Trying to forget him, Rose goes to college, takes up with a sword-wielding band of brothers, and starts an investigation into her family's past that proves increasingly mysterious. Then a tragic accident occurs, and Fish, assisted by Rose's new friends, finds himself drawn into a search through a tangle of revenge and corruption that might be threatening Rose's very life. The climax is a crucible of fear, fight, and fire that Fish must pass through to reach Rose and conquer his dragons.

The Midnight Dancers (Book 4 of the Fairy Tale Novels)

SOA Awarded: 2/19/10

Author: Regina Doman

Publisher: Regina Doman

Release date: October 13, 2008

ISBN: 978-0981931869

Synopsis: Rachel Durham, 18, is tired of her father and stepmother's staid morality and pristine prosperity. The summer of her senior year, she's more than ready for a walk on the wild side, and the door opens - literally - when she and her eleven sisters (and stepsisters) discover a secret passageway out of their historic home on the Chesapeake Bay. The night becomes Rachel's true world, and her daytime life becomes a disposable mask. Her puzzled father tries to tow his daughters back into line by enlisting the help of Paul, a med student with a seasonal job juggling at the town festival. But Paul realizes that simply blocking the girls from their midnight parties isn't going to solve the family's problems. He embarks on a risky balancing act to gain the girls' trust - and to make Rachel see that splitting her life between night and light is a dangerous dance.

Publisher: Joseph Karl Publishing
Release date: March 2009
ISBN: 9781935356011

Synopsis: Each of us has a personal apostolate, or mission, that we fulfill throughout the course of our lives. Our personal apostolate does not begin when we reach a certain age or accomplish a specific goal, nor does it reach its pinnacle when we attain a certain objective. Rather, every apostolate begins the moment a person is created and comes to fruition over time, through all the circumstances of our lives. Our mission is fulfilled in every moment, through every day. Critical to our success is our willingness to accept, return, and share the Love of God.

Your Personal Apostolate: Accepting and Sharing the Love of God provides insight into the importance of each of our efforts and contributions, reminding every person that “God is at work in you!”

Why God Matters: And How to Recognize Him in Daily Life

SOA Awarded: 5/7/10

Authors: Karina (Lumbert) Fabian and Deacon Steve Lumbert

Publisher: Tribute Books

Release date: 15 May 2010

ISBN: 978-0-9822565-3-4

Synopsis: Far too often, we expect God to show Himself in grand ways yet ignore when He makes His presence known in the day to day. Neither Deacon Steve Lumbert nor Karina (Lumbert) Fabian had dramatic conversions. Rather, God led them into deeper faith through the seemingly minor details of life: pot of rice, a habit of prayer, a frustrating flight home, or a barefooted stranger. This father-daughter team have written a delightful, quick book about finding God in the day-to-day. With thought-provoking quotes, heartwarming stories, Bible verses, passages from the Catechism of the Catholic Church, and simple exercises the reader can fit into his or her daily routine, they help others recognize God's presence. Great for the casual or converting Catholic longing for something more in their relationship with God, or the "advanced" Catholic wanting light spiritual exercise.

Haystack Full of Needles: A Catholic Home Educators' Guide to Socialization

SOA Awarded: 5/28/10

Author: Alice Gunther

Publisher: Hillside Education

Release date: June 2008

ISBN: 978-0979846953

Synopsis: Alice tells the moving story of her path to the decision to home education her children. Part of this decision was agonizing over real concern that her children would be isolated and miss out on all the fun activities she enjoyed in school. But the virtue of home education outweighed her fears and she plunged in. What she found out was that not only were her children not isolated, but that over the years they experienced a rich and diverse social life that was more meaningful than anything they could have experienced in traditional schooling. A must-read for anyone considering home schooling and those who want to understand the allure of home education.

In His Image: Nurturing Creativity in the Heart of Your Home

SOA Awarded: 6/26/10

Author: Mary Gildersleeve

Publisher: Hillside Education

Release: June 2009

ISBN: 978-0979846984

Nurturing creativity in our children and in ourselves is a critical need today. We all know that research has shown that art and music are good for fostering healthy brain development, but they are good for our souls, too. Through creativity, we imitate the Divine Creator and practice the skills needed to battle the despair produced by a pre-made, manufactured, cookie-cutter world. Made in the image of God, there is a creative desire placed in all of us. Nurturing this desire in our children is not only thoroughly satisfying, but an essential part of our parenting duty. By instilling in our children a love for the good, the true, and the beautiful, we can help to reshape our world for the good of all.

The Christian Way to be Happily Married

SOA Awarded: 7/28/10

Author: David Sanderlin

Publisher: Christian Starlight Press

Release date: March 15, 2010

Author: Karen Kelly Boyce

Release date: May, 2010

Publisher - KFR Communications

ISBN-978-0-692-00925-3

Synopsis: In the fast-paced world of technology we live in today, we seldom pay much attention to the journey each of us are on; instead we remain focused on the goals ahead of us. As we take this journey, friends and family members walk alongside of us. But sometimes, life gives us an unexpected detour and we are forced to leave that main road and those we love and travel alone to the unexpected. This is what happened to author Karen Kelly Boyce when she was diagnosed with breast cancer. Her travels that first year chronicle her shock, denial, acceptance, hope and survival. This book is one of laughter and tears, struggle and triumph. It is a must read for anyone facing a difficult journey...or knows someone who is.

Lessons From The Master: Living Like Jesus

SOA Awarded: 7/28/10

Author: Alex Basile
Publisher: Saint Paul's / Alba House
Release date: April 2009
ISBN: 0818912952

Synopsis: Of all the many ways in which the followers of Jesus referred to Him they looked upon Him and later referred to Him as the Way, the Truth and the Life undoubtedly the most frequent and popular appellation was that of Teacher or Master. People of every sector of society came to Him looking for answers. Many sensed that He held the secrets to an existence they all aspired to, both here and hereafter, and they did not hesitate to question Him at length on topics near and dear to their hearts. In this book, Basile takes an existential look at the teachings of Jesus and invites the reader to journey with the Master from the carpentry shop, to the Sermon on the Mount, to the Resurrection, as he unlocks the key to living a happy and fruitful life. He offers a number of beautiful reflections on the Scriptures and takes a fresh look at the life of Jesus that will leave the reader with solid answers to their questions about what Jesus really taught. Lessons from the Master: Living Like Jesus is not only informative, at the same time it makes for highly engaging reading for the followers of Christ of any age. As such, it highly recommends itself for use as a classroom text, retreat resource, or simply for personal spiritual growth.

God Moments: Stories That Inspire, Moments to Remember

SOA Awarded: 7/28/10
Author: Michele Elena Bondi
Publisher: Joseph Karl Publishing
Release date: September, 2010
ISBN: 978-1-935356-09-7

God moments are very significant experiences that have great meaning for us and for other people. Such events may include people, animals, angels, saints, circumstances, or anything in God's creation, and always involve an encounter with the Divine. Perhaps they are meant to challenge or change us, encourage and inspire us, motivate, comfort, or prepare us. Sometimes they occur over time for reasons that we do not immediately understand.

We can be confident that God always loves us, remains with us, and is our strength and our hope. Our mission is to know God and serve Him, always loving in greater measure. May the stories in "God Moments" help you to recognize these special moments in your own life and encourage you to consider their purpose.

Finding Faith in A Godless World: A Catholic Path To God

SOA Awarded: 9/24/10

Author: Alex Basile

Publisher: Saint Paul's / Alba House

Release date: May 2008

ISBN: 0818912650

Synopsis: How do I know for real if God exists? How does a person come to believe in God? What if I continue to have doubts? These are just a few of the questions we have all asked ourselves at one time or another. In reply, this book takes a creative approach to the problem: e.g., a visit to Las Vegas with the French philosopher and mathematician, Blaise Pascal; examining the empty tomb of Jesus with St. Peter and Mary of Magdala; standing on the shores of Lake Galilee with Jesus himself, and journeying the yellow brick road to meet the Wizard. In addition, the author has made very creative use of some cornerstone insights from St. Thomas Aquinas, Plato, St. Anselm and other philosophers and theologians. His is a relaxed and practical approach and, as such, the book will be found helpful for personal spiritual growth, for use in the classroom or for a retreat.
